

Secretary Sherman says that gold is accumulating in the treasury at the rate of five millions of dollars a month. He expects to have a hoard of one hundred millions by the first of January, 1879. He thinks that sum ample to resume on.

The two Rutland papers have got tired of fighting each other at a pecuniary loss and have consolidated, a stock company having purchased both offices. S. B. Pettigill will be editor in chief of the consolidated paper and A. H. Tuttle business manager.

There has been some hard fighting between the Russians and Turks during the past week. Both sides claim to have had the best of it, but the Turks advanced their position in two or three localities, the Russians retreating. Both sides displayed remarkable bravery and the loss, considering the number of troops engaged was very heavy.

M. Thiers, Ex-President of the French republic and one of the strongest as well as the best men of nation ever produced, died of apoplexy, Monday. He had reached an advanced age but had lost none of his vast influence over the French people, and his sudden demise is peculiarly unfortunate at this crisis in the affairs of the French nation.

A fire in New York, Monday night, destroyed Hales piano factory and several other buildings. The spread of the fire was not prevented through lack of water in that locality. The fire took in the factory and the spread of the flames was so rapid that several workmen were unable to escape. How many deaths occurred is not yet known being variously estimated from half a dozen to fifty.

Many of the democratic papers of the north think with Postmaster Key, that their brethren at the south end, and are mainly enough to say so. The editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal says: "Four years of disastrous peace, and twelve years of disastrous peace, hundreds of thousands of widows and orphans, the loss of property, together with a national debt for which the south is equally bound with the north, confirm the dreadful truth that the fight was ill-chosen, ill-timed, ill-made and ill-ended."

The Chicago Inter-Ocean has sent a circular letter of inquiry to the 76 Senators and 293 Representatives in Congress, and ascertains that 18 Senators and 113 Congressmen are in favor of repealing the act of 1873 and restoring the silver dollar to its old place in the coinage. As this is considerably less than a majority of the House, and a mere fraction of the Senate, the result is not encouraging to the Inter-Ocean and other people who want a cheap dollar worth only 90 cents.

The editor of the Madras Times, who is a member of the relief committee in India, writes under date of August 1st as follows: "The population in Southern India more or less afflicted by the famine numbers 24,000,000. In the most favorable circumstances at least one-sixth of the people will die. In Madras no camp of 3,000 rises morning after morning without leaving thirty corpses. Since the famine began 500,000 people have died of want and distress."

The Boston Advertiser says: The Michigan Central railroad has adjusted its wage-table so as to reduce almost to zero the liability to strikes. In the salaries of engineers continuity and length of service are factors having material weight, and a direct money reward is thus offered for faithfulness, sobriety and the skill which comes from long experience. The new rates result now in an average increase of 6 per cent. in wages, which certainly will not cause any rioting. This agreement by the road—for it practically amounts to that—to make allowance for length of service is worthy the attention of other roads, not only as a help to avoid disastrous strikes, but as an inducement to contented work in one position on the part of the employees, and a stimulant to excellence in that one field of labor.

Some indignation has been expressed and surprise manifested at the closing of the Lebanon Springs railroad. It has recently come into possession of the bondholders, who have issued a card giving the reason of such action. The road, as it now stands, does very little through business and depends entirely on the local traffic to pay running expenses. It is of very little advantage to anyone except to the people of the towns through which it passes. These towns not only refuse to pay the principal and interest of the bonds given in aid of the railroad but have put the road into their grand lists at a high rate. During the past year the gross receipts for running the road have been only about $100,000. The taxes paid to these towns during the year have amounted to $22,000, not leaving enough to pay the expenses of running the road. The bondholders claim that they cannot pay the expenses of the road at present if it is taxed at all, and they do not care to run it at a loss. If the above statement is true it is quite evident that the towns have not done the fair thing, and if they wish a railroad they must take a different course. Some of them have already called town meetings to take some action in the matter, and very likely the road will soon be run by some one.

THE BRATTLEBORO AND WHITEHALL RAILROAD.

A meeting in the interest of the Brattleboro and Whitehall railroad will be held at Adams Hall, Factory Point, Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. Hon. B. D. Harris, J. L. Martin, Esq., and others are expected. A full attendance of both the friends and the foes of the road is desired. It is a matter of great importance to the people of this and other towns and should be acted upon with due deliberation. If the building of the road will result in the material prosperity of the town this opportunity should not be neglected for it may be a long time before there is another chance to secure the road. If, on the other hand, it would result in no substantial benefit to the town, aid should not be granted. It is certainly an important question and we hope it will be decided according to the best interests of the town. The town meeting will be held Wednesday, Sept. 12th at 2 o'clock p. m.

STEAMER MONTREAL BURNED.

By special express to The Advertiser, which arrived just before we go to press, we learn some particulars of the total destruction of the steamer Montreal, at her wharf, Maquam Bay, Swanton, last night, the light of which was visible here in St. Albans. The fire was first discovered about 11 o'clock, by the engineer, in the hold, and in five minutes afterwards the steamer was in flames from end to end. Capt. Manderville with his wife and child barely escaped with their lives, he losing all his clothes and personal effects, and she her trunk. Matilda Benway, the cook, jumped overboard, but being an expert swimmer saved her life.

The Montreal was owned by the Northern Transportation Company, of Whitehall, and valued at from $20,000 to $25,000, on which there is about $12,000 insurance. She was formerly a favorite line boat on Lake Champlain but three years ago had her saloon deck and staterooms taken off, and was converted into a transportation and excursion steamer, being re-painted and put in fine order, and running between Whitehall and St. Johns. She had recently been engaged by the Portland and Ogdensburg Railroad Company to run between Maquam Bay and Plattsburgh, and yesterday made her first trip, taking an excursion party of some 200 who came from St. Johnsbury.

We further learn that the fire damaged considerably the Portland and Ogdensburg wharf at Maquam Bay, and burnt a freight car laden with coal, belonging to the South Eastern Railroad Company. The Swanton Falls fire engine having been recently re-packed, promptly repaired to the Bay, two miles distant, but was too late to be of service. The exact origin of the fire is not known.—St. Albans Advertiser.

DEATH OF BRIGHAM YOUNG.

Brigham Young died at Salt Lake City, after a short illness, at 4 p. m., on Wednesday last. He was attacked with cholera morbus, superinduced inflammation of the bowels, followed by continued swelling. He was conscious but only briefly answered questions during the last 48 hours. The event produced less excitement among the members of the high priesthood than was expected. Brigham's trouble was occasioned by indigestion, consequent upon a meal eaten imprudently on a day of extreme heat. On Monday his condition was precarious, but the fact was kept secret until Tuesday. Brigham's physician, his nephew, called in the most trusted Gentile physician in Salt Lake City when Young became unconscious, and this physician's advice was adopted. The Mormon policy of laying on of hands was adhered to until death ensued. He was born at Whitingham, Vermont, in 1801, and was the son of a small farmer. Little is known of his early life. In 1832 he became a convert to Mormonism, was made an elder of the Church and began to preach at Kirkland, Ohio. After the Mormons had been driven from that place to Missouri, and from the latter to Illinois, and the murder of Joseph Smith by a mob, Young was chosen president in his place. Previously, however, he was sent as a missionary to New England, where he was quite successful in making converts. In 1845, the Mormons were driven from Illinois, and were led by Young to Utah, where they arrived after a long and toilsome journey across the plains in 1847. Next year the great body of Mormons arrived and founded Salt Lake City; and at the establishment of the territorial government in 1849, President Fillmore appointed Brigham Young governor. From that time until 1854, Young reigned almost supreme in the territory. After losing his temporal power, Young still retained the presidency of the church, assisted by Heber C. Kimball and Daniel C. Wells with 12 apostles and two bodies of the priesthood, and maintaining an almost unlimited authority. Young's later career is familiar to most readers. An immense concourse from all parts of the territory assembled Sunday to attend the funeral of Young. There were probably 15,000 in the tabernacle. The body was exhibited until 11 a. m. Religious services commenced at 12 and continued till 2, remarks being made by Woodruff, Hyde, Cannon and Taylor eulogistic of the deceased and the great work he had performed. The body was enclosed in a plain red wood coffin and borne to the grave by employees of the late president. The cortege was preceded by a band and followed by the family, different orders of the priesthood and adherents, all on foot. The order of Brigham as to the disposition of his remains, written in 1873, was read, but nothing from him yet as to his successor or the disposition of his property.

It is not known what effect the death of Young will have on the fortunes of the Mormon church. It would seem to be a good time for government to step in and demand that its members live up to the rules of common decency, if nothing more. It is certain that under Young almost every conceivable crime has been committed under the guise of religious zeal or by sanction of a power above. A little weeding out of superfluous wives and a few wholesome regulations backed up by the strong arm of the law might serve to purify this cess pool of iniquity.

According to the estimates of Mr. James Caird, in his annual letter to the London Times, the prospect of a fair demand for American wheat in England is now pretty well determined. He estimates English requirements at 164,000,000 bushels, and the home crop at about 76,000,000 bushels, leaving 88,000,000 to be supplied from abroad. The importations to August 1st were at the rate of about 85,000,000 annually and the estimates which we based on these were not quite so favorable to American exports as those which Mr. Caird now forms. That gentleman regards the whole of Western Europe as deficient in wheat, and does not think that the remarkable increase of grain shipments from India, which we noticed in the returns of August 1st can continue. He adds: "We must therefore, look to America for a considerable increase even on her great exports of the last four years, and, if the war in Turkey continues, the vast resources of the United States and Canada will, indeed, be severely taxed to make good the wants of this country and Western Europe." Meanwhile the shipments to the seaboard by the canal show a remarkable improvement more grain being received in Buffalo during August by 132 per cent. than for the same month last year, and more than in the same month at any time in the history of the canal. The total shipments since the opening are about 25 per cent greater than last year.

STATE NEWS.

Henry Britton of Hartland has raised 1600 bushels of oats.—N. Grosvenor of Ferrisburgh has raised 3000 bushels of potatoes.

An unknown tramp had one foot run over by an engine at Bellows Falls last Saturday, and lost four of his toes. In two hours after they were amputated, he was off on his tramp again.

A girl fourteen years of age, daughter of Patrick Keating, residing at Barton, was fatally burned Thursday afternoon by the explosion of a kerosene oil can, from which she was pouring oil on a fire which she had just started in the stove.

The unusual course of three bad carriers in a fierce fight on top of a three story brick building was witnessed at Bellows Falls one day recently, each trying to throw the other over. They might have succeeded in this, had not the local police climbed to the dizzy height and arrested them.

Last Sunday Rev. Dr. Parmelee, of Jersey City, commenced to preach in the Congregational church in the afternoon, at West Randolph, the Christian and Baptist churches uniting in the service. The house was filled, and just as Dr. Parmelee had announced that his text would be found in the one hundred and forty-fourth Psalm, the audience jumped to their feet, as one of the truss rods that support the floor of the audience-room gave way, and let the floor sink in the middle about six inches. But fortunately the other trusses held, otherwise the whole audience would have landed in the vestry. There was no screaming or panic but the house was soon vacated; and Rev. Mr. Smith of the Christian church, invited them to his church, where the doctor finished his announcement by saying that it was in the one hundred and forty-fourth Psalm and third verse.

A nine year old son of William Kirkland of Waterbury, was drowned while bathing Saturday afternoon. His companion, a boy about the same age, brought him almost to shore, but was unable to save him. Just before noon Monday, a French woman named Gagnon, seventy-nine years of age, was picking up sticks for fuel on the track south of the freight depot at St. Albans, when the locomotive "Forest City" and four freight cars backed down upon her, and all passed over her, inflicting shocking and fatal injuries. A sad accident occurred at Plymouth on Saturday about 10 o'clock a. m. Mr. Edward Brown, aged about 70 years, was loading oats upon a side hill when the cart was overturned, and he to save himself is jumping off the load, the back part of his head came in contact with a stake or fire of the wheel, crushing his skull. He lingered about eight hours and died, speaking but a few words. He had been a long, hard working citizen of the town, leaving a wife and several children grown up to man's estate.

One hundred and fifty-one pounds of honey was taken from a tree on Round Mountain, Brattleboro, by bee-hunters recently.

John Rice of Rutland has found quartz bearing soil, and it is thought, silver, somewhere on Bald mountain. A specimen recently brought down and analyzed was found quite rich in silver.

The Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., which was incorporated in 1859, is about to make its first assessment upon its premium notes. This is owing to the unprecedented amount of losses the company has been obliged to pay during the last two years. The indebtedness is $55,000.

Charles Johnson, who has been under arrest at Rutland, for some time, for storing a car filled with soldiers returning from the Bennington centennial, has been committed for trial in default of $500 bail.

H. D. Everett, an old and quite deaf gentleman of Claremont, while driving across the railroad track the 23rd, was struck by an engine, and his $1500 carriage was stove in pieces, but he fortunately escaped with some slight bruises.

President Hayes was so much pleased with the turnout provided for him at Bennington that he commissioned Mr. George E. French of Woodstock to purchase for him a span of Vermont horses.

The Free Press says:—A queer genius not more than a hundred miles from Burlington, recently placed a bell on his barn, to be rung every time he got drunk. The bell has been ringing for the last day or two.

At White River Junction, where Mr. Evans was on the platform, a man climbed up and, seizing him by the hand, said, "I want to shake hands with the man who made the argument."

Mr. Holmes, of the Tip-Top House, Mount Mansfield, has "painted" a big cliff in his vicinity with whitewash to make it resemble a snow bank and cause the curious to ask questions.

Six boys of St. Johnsbury Center who got intoxicated on cider, were fined $11 apiece, and the man who sold them the beverage had $30 to pay.

It is reported that the government is to build a signal station and observatory on the top of Acute mountain, in Windsor, at a cost of $20,000.

At 8:30 a. m. train from Salem, N. Y., was rounding a curve near Pawlet, Friday, the 24th, Summer W. Hitchcock, the engineer, noticed Martin Laydon's young child, 1 1/2 years old, playing on the track, and made every attempt to stop his engine. The pilot struck the child, however, and it disappeared, but it was soon rescued from under the engine, unscathed and unharmed. This is the third child Mr. Hitchcock has run over since he has been engineer on the Rutland and Washington road, but all of them escaped without injury.

A constable in Caledonia county was rather hard on our assembled "wisdom and virtue" in the following return on his warrant for killing dogs under the new law:

"STATE OF VERMONT, Caledonia County, ss., July 24, '77. I have killed no dog and have found none that have not been registered and licensed according to law, nor have had any complaints made to me about dogs or cats; and would say I consider the dog law a nuisance, and any one that helped to make it or had anything to do with it, are nuisances."

With my return heron endorsed
Attest: _____ CONSTABLE."

Trials of Edward F. Hayden, for the murder of his wife at Derby Line last September, begins Sep. 10, at Iredburg. Evidence has been taken in the West to undertake to strengthen the plea of heredity insanity, which it is stated will be his defense. Hayden is in Windsor prison for sale keeping.

A young lady, from the North part of Rutland, accompanied a party to Lake Bomoseen Saturday, and while there was taken suddenly insane. It was with much difficulty she was brought home. She was wildly demonstrative and screamed loudly. A physician was called who secured sleep by the use of opiates, and on Sunday morning her mind was restored to its right condition, but she is now seriously ill of a fever. The celebrated stallion Woodstock, formerly known as John Morrill, died on Saturday evening last without any apparent cause. He was 19 years old. The Woodstock Standard says he was noted as the sire of more trotters and horses of value than any horse ever raised or owned in Vermont, and his loss is a serious one to the State. For years he has been valued at four to five thousand dollars. The best time he ever made was 2:22. The CHESTER BOOT COMPANY, which has been running behind since 1870, when it was wound, and now has debts of $10,000 with assets of half that amount, has been put into bankruptcy by Horace Harvey, one of the surviving members.
